User Evaluation

I will not specify the name specific age of my user as that will breach the ethical terms of service however, I can specify that the age of my user was in their 60s meaning they meet the main demographic.

The first question I asked was "Was the app's layout easy to understand and navigate?" The answer to this question was that the layout of the app was logical and easy to understand as well as the size of the buttons.

The second question I asked was "Did you encounter any issues or frustrations during the process?" The answered saying that the were no issues with the technicalities however, with the user having poor eyesight, they complained about the size of the font.

The third and final question I asked was "Would you recommend this app to others? Why or why not?" The user responded with saying that the idea is great as well as the layout however, they wouldn't suggest it to someone with poor eyesight as the text was not bold nor big enough for the user to understand it with ease.

As a closing note the user mentioned that at his age, he doesn't get out as much and as a result of this specified that the user said the demographic should be younger as they are a more tech-savvy generation.
